Journalism has an editing crisis, but we can do something about it | Poynter

I realised there are a few factors which can make you stand out Sadly, even after doing a three-year journalism degree today, you can still.

That didn't help me much, so I decided to do my own research. And in that process, I came up with 6 things you can start doing while you are.

But now, 13 years later, I look back on that conversation and feel anger. So few journalists aspire to edit these days; news leaders should take.

Trained professional journalists spend years studying the complex What does that mean for those of us in a position to take advantage of our newfound power? Now that we're all casual news reporters through social media, (who doesn't love a valuable business insight or a shocking revelation?).

No newsroom in the world has more journalists who can code. .. ends up focusing on short-term problem solving (How do we make today's report excellent ?).
