In the 1980s, Taiwanese economy was booming. Since pure Formosans are extremely rare, there is a high risk of genetic disorder and unstable behavior due to the shallow gene pool. This led to cross-breeding between the Formosan and the military dog. As a result, it was confirmed that the present Taiwan Dog is a descendant of the South Asian hunting dogs.

However, the latter one was not found during the research conducted by Dr. But of course nobody says you should get close to .
